

Flag of Albania

Adopted in 1912 (original flag) and on 7 April 1992 (current flag)

A silhouette of an open-winged bicephalated eagle on a red field. The red stands for bravery, strength and valor, while the double-headed eagle represents the sovereign state of Albania located in the Balkans. The eagle was used for heraldic purposes in the late Middle Ages by a number of noble families in Albania (it is said that Skanderbeg used it on his flag) and became the symbol of the Albanians.
